

The following disclaimers apply to Liberty Common School's use of and participation on various Internet social networking sites.

Facebook:

STANDARD DISCLAIMER: Views and opinions expressed by the creators, sponsors, advertisers, members or users of Facebook including its "walls," website, message boards and groups, or communicated through it by any other person, are not necessarily those of Liberty Common School unless specifically stated in an endorsement statement or communication transmission originated by a person authorized to represent Liberty Common School. Liberty Common School's use of Facebook, including the "Liberty Common School" group, and this board is intended to share school news and the school's ideas with others and does not constitute or imply endorsement of ideas, beliefs, opinions, actions or behaviors expressed by others unless specifically indicated. Liberty Common School's use of Facebook does not indicate membership, endorsement of, agreement or identity with any person, product, service, institution, agency, group, party, committee or organization created, facilitated, represented or described at this site. Liberty Common School does not condone any form of harassment, written attacks, insult, vulgarity, indecency or any behavior which might be considered "cyber bullying" whether perpetrated in writing, electronic tactic or transmission of images. All inquiries should be directed to info@libertycommon.org

Twitter:

STANDARD DISCLAIMER: Views and opinions expressed by the creators, sponsors, advertisers, members or users of Twitter including its "calendar," "wall," website, message boards and groups, or communicated through it by any other person, are not necessarily those of Liberty Common School unless specifically stated in an endorsement statement or communication transmission originated by a person authorized to represent Liberty Common School. Liberty Common School's use of Twitter, including the "LibertyCommon homepage" and profile and calendar is intended to share school news and the school's ideas with others and does not constitute or imply endorsement of ideas, beliefs, opinions, actions or behaviors expressed by others unless specifically indicated. Liberty Common School's use of Twitter does not indicate membership, endorsement of, agreement or identity with any person, product, service, institution, agency, group, party, committee or organization created, facilitated, represented or described at this site. Liberty Common School does not condone any form of harassment, written attacks, insult, vulgarity, indecency or any behavior which might be considered "cyber bullying" whether perpetrated in writing, electronic tactic or transmission of images. All inquiries should be directed to info@libertycommon.org

Ning.com / Colorado Charters:

STANDARD DISCLAIMER: Views and opinions expressed by the creators, sponsors, advertisers, members or users of Ning.com or the Ning.com site identified as "Colorado Charters" including its website, message boards, blogs and groups, or communicated through it by any other person, are not necessarily those of Liberty Common School unless specifically stated in an endorsement statement or communication transmission originated by a person authorized to represent Liberty Common School. Liberty Common School's use of Ning.com, including the "Colorado Charters" site, the "Liberty Common School" page is intended to share school news and the school's ideas with others and does not constitute or imply endorsement of ideas, beliefs, opinions, actions or behaviors expressed by others unless specifically indicated. Liberty Common School's use of Ning.com does not indicate membership, endorsement of, agreement or identity with any person, product, service, institution, agency, group, party, committee or organization created, facilitated, represented or described at this site. Liberty Common School does not condone any form of harassment, written attacks, insult, vulgarity, indecency or any behavior which might be considered "cyber bullying" whether perpetrated in writing, electronic tactic or transmission of images. All inquiries should be directed to info@libertycommon.org

General:

STANDARD DISCLAIMER: Views and opinions expressed by the creators, sponsors, advertisers, members or users of any Internet social networking site, website not owned by Liberty Common School, blog or any other Internet-based address, electronic message boards and groups, or communicated through such electronic displays by any other person, are not necessarily those of Liberty Common School unless specifically stated in an endorsement statement or communication transmission originated by a person authorized to represent Liberty Common School. Liberty Common School's use of Internet-based communications, including sites identified with the words "Liberty Common School" or "Liberty Common" or "Liberty" are intended to share school news and the school's ideas with others and do not constitute or imply endorsement of ideas, beliefs, opinions, actions or behaviors expressed by others unless specifically indicated. Liberty Common School's use of Internet-based communications sites does not indicate membership, endorsement of, agreement or identity with any person, product, service, institution, agency, group, party, committee or organization created, facilitated, represented or described at any site not owned by Liberty Common School. Liberty Common School does not condone any form of harassment, written attacks, insult, vulgarity, indecency or any behavior which might be considered "cyber bullying" whether perpetrated in writing, electronic tactic or transmission of images. All inquiries should be directed to info@libertycommon.org

Posted: October 21, 2009